BREWER DEMANDS THE ENFORCEMENT OF PROHIB. LAW

SAYS OTHER BREWERS ARE VIOLATING LAW CAUSING HIM BIG LOSS

ADVOCATES THAT FOUR AND ONE-HALF PER CENT BEER BE ALLOWED

(By United Press)
Washington, May 12—One of the country's biggest brewers today demanded strict enforcement of the prohibition law and a ban on beer as medicine.

A congressional investigation into charges that many brewers are being allowed to make light beer despite the Volstead law, was asked of the house judiciary committee by representatives of the Annhauser-Busch, St. Louis brewers.

While the dregs in the committee gasped in amazement the Annhauser-Busch representative urged that congress adequately prohibit use of beer as medicine.

The position of the brewers in that respect puts them in the same boat as "radical" dregs.

Oliver T. Remmer, Annhauser-Busch attorney, said his company desired strict enforcement of the law and that this would be impossible if the prescription beer is allowed.

The company made plain the belief that the sale of four and one-half per cent beer should be allowed openly and not through prescriptions and drug stores.

The brewing company attorney charged that brewers in Chicago, Pennsylvania and Ohio are openly making light beer and that causes a loss to his company of $4,000,000 to $5,000,000 because it is obeying the law. In certain centers said Remmer, the breweries and sale of beer have never been discontinued under the present prohibition law.

U. S. Beats British Filming Queen Mary

(By United Press)

London, May 12—The life story of "Mary, Queen of Scots" is being filmed here by an American firm.

This has given rise to much talk because a little while ago it was announced that a British firm would produce the film version of this subject. However, the American firm is now advertising for a girl who bears a facial resemblance to the Queen to play the name part.

In order to straighten out the matter in the minds of the public, Walter West, who originally intended to produce such a film, wrote to the London Daily Mail:

"Those whose business it is to find the money necessary for the production of British films were convinced that no one wanted to see British history on the screen and that costume plays were a failure. I spent three years trying to bring them round to my way of thinking, with the result that an American firm has launched forth on the film and it is now nearing completion."

PROHIBIT BEER AS A MEDICINE

CONGRESS BEGINS CONSIDERING AMENDMENT FOR THAT PURPOSE

HERBERT WALKER

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, May 12—Congress today started to work on plugging up the leaks in enforcement of national prohibition.

The plugs are found in the supplemental Volstead proposed by Rep. Volstead of Minnesota, which has the united support of the anti-saloon league and most of the dregs in congress.

Hearings on the supplemental bill were commenced today before the house judiciary committee.

The primary object of the drive in demanding legislation in addition to the Volstead law, is to administer a knockout blow to the ruling of former Attorney General Palmer naming beer as a medicine and that it may be purchased in unlimited quantities.

The dregs will make sure the new prohibition commissioner will not put this ruling into effect.

The action today makes the first step toward amending the Volstead law since it was enacted in October, 1919.

The main provisions of the Volstead supplement are:

Absolute prohibition against the prescription of beer as medicine.

An embargo on manufacture and importation of all liquor until the amount of such liquor now in distilleries or other bonded warehouses shall have been reduced to a quantity that, in the opinion of the prohibition commissioner, will, with the liquor that may thereafter be manufactured, be sufficient to supply the current need thereafter for all non-beverage purposes.

Greater restriction in use of alcohol in making of patent medicines.

PRIEST ARRESTED FOR $1,000,000 MAIL ROBBERY

FOUND WITH $6,000 OF THE STOLEN BONDS IN HIS POSSESSION

(By United Press)

Chicago, May 12—Rev. Anthony Gorrick, priest of New Chicago, Ind., near Gary, was arraigned today and charged with having in his possession $6,000 worth of liberty bonds stolen in the Toledo million dollar mail robbery.

He admitted cashing coupons of the bonds in Chicago and Gary banks to pay the debts of his little parish.

Rev. Gorrick, in his confession, implicated Miss Wanda Urbatis, who was immediately arrested at Toledo, according to authorities.

Miss Urbatis was under arrest several weeks ago but was released because of lack of evidence.

Captain Porter, postal inspector, said the bonds were found secreted in Priest Gorrick's coal shed.

Porter said Gorrick was suspected when he sent an agent to cash the bond coupons. The priest was arrested late this afternoon.

Rev. Gorrick told federal authorities he had been duped into accepting the bonds, Porter said. Fifty persons have been arrested to date for alleged connection with the mail theft which occurred in February. Many of them have been released after being questioned.

The request was for the lifting of part of the injunction to prevent an interchange between members of the association as to prices, production and stock on hand. The association declared there would be no attempt to regulate prices if the injunction was lifted, although it was denied this was done in the past.

Edison's Questionnaires Ridiculed by Unemployed

(By United Press)

Chicago, May 12—"We are starving for lack of work, then they ask us riddles,"

That was the comment of a few of the loiterers along West Madison street, Chicago's park of jobless men today, on Thomas Edison's questionnaires for application for positions.

"As soon as that stuff about Edison is being printed, every boss I hit for a position starts asking me to explain the nature of the fourth dimension," said J. Barnes, one of the applicants.

"I ask you, what chance is there for a job for those who don't spend their life studying the dictionary or the encyclopedia?"

It developed today that many employers have adopted Edison's system and are compiling lists of questions of their own to put to the applicants more or less difficult to test their mentality.

In case Edison needs anyone to take up a list of questions he might call on E. D. Twedell, assistant in the general library.

Twedell was the only man in Chicago who knew the deepest place ever measured in the ocean, why they were called the Virgin Islands and answer to sixty-five additional questions procured by the wizard of quiz.

"Dear, dear. Could they be a test?" said Twedell as he penned the answer to the last of the questions. "Ask me something more difficult."

IRISH PEACE HINGES ON UNITED COUNTRY

BRITISH OFFER FISCAL AUTONOMY WITH CONTROL OF OWN JUDICIARY AND POLICE

Dublin, May 12—A most important peace proposal was placed in the hands of the Sinn Fein leaders a few days ago in which the British government made its maximum offer for a settlement. As condition to the offer the north and south must accept it as a final settlement and they must work together as a united Ireland. The main points in the proposal follow:

Full fiscal autonomy, including full control of customs and income taxes will be granted.

The Irish government will have full control of its judiciary.

It will have full control of its police.

It will have all the rights possessed by any other self-governing member of the British empire.

The annual tribute of 18,000,000 pounds (normally about $90,000,000), will be abandoned.

Arrangements for defense by the army and navy are left open for discussion. It probably will be on a basis of having British troops garrisoned Ireland as protection against foreign invasion, but they will not be allowed to operate or suppress domestic disorder in Ireland except at the request of the Irish government.

The model for this plan is the relationship of United States federal troops to the American states.

I have the highest authority for saying that this plan has the approval of Prime Minister Lloyd George, who is willing to grant all points, but only to a united Ireland, and only on condition that the offer is accepted as final and not as an instalment to a larger demand in the future. I have also the highest authority for saying the Sinn Fein leaders are favorably disposed to the plan, but their difficulty is that they have led their followers to expect full independence.

One suggestion under consideration is for the publication of the scheme in the Irish and English press, with the indorsement of leaders of all the Irish factions, as a test of public opinion, but it is not likely that serious action will be taken to secure Irish unity, which is the first essential of the plan, until after the election by which Ulster will firmly establish her position, enabling her to bargain as an equal partner of the south.

NEW GERMAN CHANCELLOR RE- MAKING CABINET

IS LOOKING FOR STRONG MEN TO MAKE CABINET PERMANENT

(United Press)

Berlin, May 12—Chancellor Julius Wirth today devoted most of his time to completing his hastily formed cabinet.

Wirth apparently did not agree with those who believed his ministry is to be of short duration. He continued searching for strong men to relieve him of duties as foreign minister and minister of finance. The latter post was filled with several members. Some appointees probably will be replaced.

"This is to be a cabinet of deeds and not of words," he declared.

Nation's Hospitals To Keep Open House

(By United Press)

Chicago, May 12—Hospitals in every section of the United States will observe today in memory of Florence Nightingale, pioneer in modern nursing methods.

The anniversary of the birth-date of the famous nurse has been designated as National Hospital Day. President Harding, Surgeon General Cummings and governments of many states are cooperating.

Thousands of hospitals will keep "open house." Invitations will be issued to the public to "come in" and look the hospitals over, to get a better idea of the amount and scope of the work and the care and treatment of sick and injured.

Hospitals will arrange their own programs, governed by local conditions. In many cities graduation exercises for nurses schools will be held.

Surgeon General Cummings has directed the commanding officer of each of the sixty-seven government hospitals, where are quartered 25,000 disabled war veterans, to open the institution doors to the public. By this method the government hopes to refute the complaint that war veterans are neglected and mistreated.

General details of National Hospital Day are being directed by Mathew O. Foley, Chicago, executive secretary of the National Hospital Day committee. State directors in more than forty states and four Canadian provinces have been appointed.

CAN NOT HIDE WEAKNESSES

Philadelphia Writer Draws a Moral From the Life and Works of Two Men

There were two men. One, in order to hide his faults from the eyes of the public, surrounded himself with many friends, better than himself in character.

The other man had a single friend, as sterling in character, sympathies and perceptions as himself.

In the first case the man fooled the public, which seemed to see him through his friends.

In the second case, however, the man and his friend were misunderstood and neglected by the public.

The first man, during life, was praised and flattered, for, being very wealthy, he could very easily purchase empty words, but not loved or respected.

The second man, after death, was at last understood, respected, honored and loved, but to no avail; for he could not be brought back from the grave.

It was a case of the same old story—of an unjust, blind world.

PARK, PLAYGROUND COMMITTEE

Golf Committee Reported on Members Secured to Effect an Organization Soon

Sixty or more members were present at the Regular Chamber of Commerce meeting held on Wednesday evening in which much general business came up. President D. D. Schrader presided.

A general discussion occurred over Memorial Day and it was the sense of the Chamber to cooperate with all other organizations in making the day a most successful one. The golf committee reported they had members enough signed up to assure a golf club and were now taking up the site question.

Change of name of the Chamber, a contest inaugurated some time ago and offering $25 for the best suggestion, was referred to the publicity committee and they are to select the three most suitable and the matter will then be voted on at the next regular meeting of the Chamber.

Slight Change in Text.

The Pullman being very crowded, little Elsie had to sleep in an upper berth. It was a wonderful adventure and it filled her with great glee. Her mother did not succeed in getting her quiet until it was time for her to say her prayers, but she was a well-brought-up little girl and knew that prayers must always be said earnestly. She knelt in her upper berth and began in a serious little voice: "Now I lay me up to sleep."

Effective In Ancient Warfare.

Among types of sword famous in the past must be mentioned the great two-handed affair swung by the Germans in lansquenets, who were much mixed up in the French religious wars. So large was it, it could not be carried at the side in a scabbard, but had to be swung across the back. When the lansquenets went into action they had to be stationed a good distance apart, in order to confine the casualties to the enemy. Each took his stand, started the old scythe going and developed quite a sphere of influence.

Work and Men.

Work is the greatest boon ever conferred on man. Had he been able to live without it his development would have been hopeless. Look at the races to whom life is easy, where Nature is most luxuriant and productive, where, there being no cold, no clothes are needed, and where food can be gathered without the planting or cultivation. They are the weakest of God's creatures and no progress can be expected of them. The stronger races are those who have much to do to live. Work has made them.—William Howard Taft.

WAGES AND PRICES

There is criticism of the resistance offered by industrial workers to a reduction of wages. It is pointed out that a general lowering of the cost of living is impossible until wages are lowered, because labor is so large a factor in prices of all kinds. In some cases the criticism is plainly deserved. There are groups of very highly paid workers whose insistence on keeping their boom wages in a time of depression is unjust to every economic group, and holds back the resumption of prosperity.

On the whole, however, employees are not greatly to blame for this attitude. Their situation is different from that of the employing class. They have less power to make sure that they shall not lose in the readjusting process.

Manufacturers who lower the prices of their product can usually make up the loss by lowering wages accordingly. Workmen who have their wages lowered have no such immediate recourse by which to adjust the cost of living to their lower income. It is well known that, although price levels, as shown on the financial page, have sunk far below their war-time level, there has been, as yet, no corresponding effect on the wage-earner. The reductions are mostly in the manufacturers' and wholesalers' prices, not in the retailers'. If the general reduction as shown by comparative statistics is 40 per cent from the peak of prices, it may be no more than 10 or 15 per cent as reflected in a workman's present living expenses. The drop will doubtless come in time, but the workman feels that he cannot afford to take his wage cut on faith.

This is a fact that might be given more attention by manufacturing and commercial bodies. If it could be proved to any labor union that 80 per cent of its present wages would buy as much of the necessities of life as 100 per cent has been buying, it would probably agree readily enough to a 20 per cent cut. The best agreement would be an actual reduction of retail prices wherever they are warranted.

THE CHILD AT THE WHEEL

As long as irresponsible children are allowed to drive automobiles the accident toll will be high.

In Chicago, in March, two cars collided. In one were two responsible citizens of mature years. One of them was killed, the other seriously injured. In the second car were a group of school children, one of whom was driving. The jury found that "the accident was due to the youth and inexperience of the driver, who was only 14 years of age." At the trial her father admitted that she had been driving for four years, that ever since she was 10.

Most states have laws forbidding the operation of cars by children under 15 or 16 years of age, which is plenty young enough. In most states, as in Illinois, the law is broken every day.

A young child can learn the mechanical process of operating the ordinary car. He has not, however, the judgment nor the presence of mind to warrant his being allowed to drive. If an accident happens, no matter what the circumstances, suspicion will be directed toward the youthful driver. For his own sake as well as for the public safety the child should be kept from the wheel.

Had a Long Family Tree.

Queen Elizabeth was a victim to the weakness for long pedigrees. Among the treasures of Hatfield is a genealogical tree, forty-two feet long, which was drawn up for Elizabeth, tracing her descent back to Adam. In the more modern portion of the pedigree admirably painted coats of arms are attached to all the names, together with the dates of birth and death. It is curious to note that Queen Elizabeth's coats of arms filled up one side only. The other side is left blank, presumably for the arms of the husband whom it was thought her majesty would come time or other despatch to accept.

FEAR THAT THEY ARE OVERLOOKED

WOMEN DISTURBED BECAUSE SO FEW OF THEIR SEX HAVE BEEN GIVEN FEDERAL JOBS.

THINK HARDING TOO SLOW

Miss Boardman Has Been Replaced by a Man, and Miss Annette Adams Isn't Likely to Be Succeeded by a Woman.

By EDWARD B. CLARK.
Washington.—There are evidences here that the women of the country are somewhat disturbed because so few representatives of their sex thus far have been given recognition by the incoming administration. It may be that places for the women will be found in great numbers in the future, but it is known definitely by word of mouth that some of those voters who recently came into their own as such are not altogether happy over the present condition.

Administrative history to some extent is repeating itself in this matter. It was not until the Roosevelt administration that womanhood began to be recognized as a possible official force of government. Women had held office, and were holding office, at that time, but the greater positions still were denied them.

President Roosevelt appointed some women to office. President Taft appointed more, and President Wilson more yet. It may be that President Harding will go Mr. Wilson still better and do all that the women want him to do in the way of recognizing their ability to do things in government life. At present President Harding seems to be a little backward in putting the women forward, but there are friends of the administration who say that this condition soon will pass.

The women are anxious to work for the government, but it can be said for a good many of them that they do not appear as anxious as the men for the emoluments of office, but rather seem to have a desire to serve because of their belief that they can do good in fields in which the sterner sex is not altogether a success.

Man Displaces Miss Boardman.
There are one or two things which have made the women fear that they are to be overlooked. Miss Mabel Boardman, Republican, was appointed by Woodrow Wilson as a commissioner of the District of Columbia. The senate had not confirmed her in office when the administration changed. Miss Boardman was for years virtually the head of the American Red Cross of the United States. She had been active in civic matters in Washington for years. In her work she had the sanction of previous Republican and of the immediately previous Democratic administrations. Miss Boardman's place was given to a man. She had served only a few months and did her work, although the senate had not confirmed her appointment.

There seems to be some fear on the part of the leaders in the general work of women, including Republican party work, that a woman is not to be appointed to take the place of Annette Abbott Adams who has just resigned as an assistant attorney general of the United States. Miss Adams is the first woman ever to hold such an office. She goes out with the praises of the department. The women are urging that one of their sex be appointed to succeed Miss Adams, but the word is that they are to be disappointed.

Most of the women who think that their sex already should have been given greater recognition, although the present administration is only two months old, seem to think that they will have to wait for marked recognition and high representation in government until the welfare department has been established. A great deal has been written about the welfare department, a bill for the creation of which is now in congress.

Skeptical About New Department.
Some of the women are getting a bit caustic. They say that they have doubts whether the welfare department ever will be established, and that it may be only a will-o-the-wisp to lure them away from what they declare ought to be the bright and fixed light of present recognition. They know the President wants the department, but they hear congress does not want it.

One has to set things down as they are here in Washington. The women are criticizing the administration for not giving them the recognition that they say they deserve and which the lines of endeavor which they represent deserve. The men close to the administration say that the women must learn to wait; that they are more than a trifle impatient, and that they fear because man originally stood in a considerable degree against their enfranchisement he is going to stand against any plan to give them high places in government.

If the welfare department shall be established and thus a new cabinet officer shall take a seat at the President's board, it is said that Mrs. Harriet Taylor Upton of Warren, Ohio, will be named as the department's chief. In that case it can be taken for granted that many positions will be given to the women of the country.

AMATEUR VAUDEVILLE

First of a Series of Performances to Give Brainerd and County Amateurs Chance to Show Talents

Tonight amateur vaudeville artists will take the stage at the New Park theatre anxious to win prizes. One of the contestants that the whole town will want to see is "Woodrow" young lad named Peterson from Woodrow. He has promised to put on a black-face act and half of Woodrow town is coming. If "Woodrow" simply acts naturally, the act will be a scream.

Alfred Zawadzki will appear in Polish and Russian folk songs. He is a shop boy and is billed as the Caruso of Brainerd.

Gunhild and Maurice Nelson, instrumentalists, will put on a musical act.

Crosby may enter a sketch act from that town.

A delightful surprise is surely awaiting Brainerd people when they discover the real talent that is in this city.

The picture is "You'll Find It Everywhere", in which you will see a dramatic story of the high and low sides, the bright and the seamy sides of life.

Marie Doro Coming

Never was there a mystery more baffling than that which you will see in "12:10", which will be the attraction at Lyceum theatre on Friday. The star of this super feature is Marie Doro, one of the most illustrious stars that ever left the spoken drama to take up screen work. Such famous men of the theatre as David Belasco, Charles Frohman, William Gillette and Arthur Hopkins recognized her ability and backed their judgment by investing her with pays to exploit her genius.

At the Lyceum

A breath of pure country air and a touch of theatrical color blended into a human interest story characterizes "The Garter Girl", which was shown at the Lyceum theatre last night. It is entirely different from the average feature, and this in itself makes the film an achievement in motion picture art. To get something different in this day when there are hundreds of pictures on the market is worthy of special mention.

"The Garter Girl" will be shown again tonight. The added attractions are a 2-reel comedy and the Fox News Weekly.

JUST IN TIME.

While driving through Yellowstone park we came to some muddy, clay-like ground. Father happened to see a small shack in from the road and decided to go over to see who lived there. When he was about half way across the field he noticed a slight movement in the ground. Going over he found a hole about six inches wide. Thinking it was an animal hole he got down on his knees to peer in. We saw a man come running from the hut, waving his arms excitedly. Father did not hear him because, as he said afterward, he heard a low growling in the hole. Then the "animal" came out. "It" jumped up five feet in the air. Father's animal was a mud geyser, and it covered him from head to feet with yellow mud. The man, when he reached father, pointed smilingly to a sign which read: "Geyser No. 127. Spurts every 35 minutes." We have never ceased to tease father about his animal.—Chicago Tribune.

Minneapolis, May 12.—M. L. McGinnis had a good act—aimed to awe the public. He was going to eat nails, drink tacks—seven rats—and similar delicacies, and sought an amusement permit. The council could not bear to see it, and thought the public couldn't.

National Hospital Day.

St. Paul, May 12.—The calling of nurses was lauded by Governor Press today in a proclamation asking Minnesotans to join in observance of National Hospital Day today.

"It is proper and necessary that the public know more about what the modern hospital offer to sick and suffering and what it is doing for humanity," the governor said.

"Hospital service and nursing offer reasonably fair remuneration and in addition it offers splendid training. Those who engage in this work have the added satisfaction of knowing that they are performing a most valuable service to humanity."

Superior National Forest
St. Paul, May 12.—Development of the Superior National Forest for recreational purposes was discussed here today at a meeting of civic and recreational bodies of the state.

The Superior National Forest is practically virgin and much of it has never been traversed, despite the fact that civilization is so near. It lies in St. Louis, Lake and Cook counties along the Canadian border and opposite it the Dominion has established a forest and game preserve.

The gateway to the forest region is Ely on the tip of the great Minnesota Iron Range.

A. R. Garhart of Denver, recreational engineer for the federal forestry service, is to be the chief speaker at the conference here. Representatives of the commercial bodies of Duluth, Ely, Minneapolis and St. Paul, were here for the conference.

N. D. and Minnesota Schools Compete

Fargo, May 12.—North Dakota and western Minnesota high schools are competing in the inter-scholastic athletic and industrial and artistic contest at the agricultural school today, Friday and Saturday.

Industrial contests comprise cooking, mechanical drawing, sewing, woodwork, baking and stock judging. There will be an industrial arts exhibition and C. A. Prosser of Dunwoody Institute will be the feature speaker.

Prizes are to be awarded in dramatic composition and on declamations.

"Cock a Doodle Doo."

Several years ago my small son and I were visiting in the Ozarks. The child's grandmother gave him a beautiful white bantam rooster and hen to take home. We traveled in a chair car and I put the tiny chicks in a paper box and put the box on the car door, thinking it would be safe for the night. I forgot all about the possibility of the rooster crowing. Early in the morning that little bantam started in, long and loud. I have never tried since to transport live stock.—Exchange.

FINAL EXAMINATIONS NEAR

Greater Interest Aroused in Schools
by Good Work of Parent-Teachers
Associations

(By W. C. Cobb, Superintendent of City Schools)

The commencement exercises of the graduating class, which have usually been held on the Monday evening following the close of school, will this year be held on Friday evening, June third, the closing day of school.

The commencement speaker this year, Miss Theda Gildemeister, of the Winona State Normal school, was the speaker selected for last year but who was unable to meet the engagement on account of illness. Miss Gildemeister is one of the best known women speakers in the state, as well as one of the best known educators, and at the present time she holds the important position of President of the Minnesota Educational Association, one of the largest associations in the state, with upward of ten thousand members.

The baccalaureate exercises will be held in the high school assembly room on Sunday evening, May twenty-ninth. Rev. Kelly of the Presbyterian church of this city will deliver the address. The music will be in charge of the musical director of the school, Miss Lydia M. Nelson. All churches and pastors of the city are invited to join in this union service. Chairs on the platform will be provided for all ministers who may attend.

The graduating class this year is large in numbers and ranks very high in scholarship. We doubt if many towns in Minnesota of equal size will turn out a better product than the Brainerd high school is turning out this year.

The schools earnestly request the co-operation of parents in the matter of school attendance during the last month of the year. The final examinations are near at hand and the review work in preparation for the examinations is now on. Every effort should be put forth by the parents to prevent unnecessary absence. The tendency to be absent at this time of the year is greater in the upper grades among pupils who have the state examinations to take than in the other grades of the school and some of the failures to make high school are often due to poor attendance at the finish. The poorest attendances in the Brainerd schools during the month just closed was in two of our upper grades in two different buildings.

The first Parent-Teachers' meeting, held in the high school assembly room on Tuesday evening, marks the close of this activity for this year. Greater interest has been displayed in these gatherings, during the present year, in all sections of the city than here-to-fore. On the whole, a great deal of good has accrued to the schools, in general, as a result of these get-together meetings between parents and teachers. A greater interest has been aroused in the schools and a desire to know what they are doing or what they are not doing and why? Such vital questions as the health of children, general sanitation, proper recreation out of school hours, especially the safe guarding of children's morals, home reading, playground apparatus, and expenditures for school purposes have been freely discussed.

The imperative need of a new high school building has been brought to the attention of people in all quarters of the city and it would seem from the sentiments expressed that all are agreed that a new building is a pressing necessity. The next real question appears to be how expensive a building do the people of Brainerd need and how soon will they be ready to vote on the question.

The general educational bill, finally passed by the recent legislature in its closing days, did not exclude the state aid for industrial departments, manual training, home economics, and commercial training. Public opinion throughout the state made itself felt and the legislature acted in accordance with the public opinion expressed.

The financial provisions in the educational bill, as finally adopted, are more favorable to Brainerd, in the way of state aid, than formerly. The allowance for library aid and high school tuition is doubled and the state pays a liberal allowance to school districts levying in excess of 20 mills for school purposes. The allowance beyond 32 mills is still more generous and will be a great relief to school districts suffering from low assessed valuations and high tax rates. The special measure in which Brainerd was interested and sent a delegation to the state capitol several times, the bill for the relief of towns affected by the Gross Earnings tax, was finally passed. The several amendments proposed by the Brainerd delegation were incorporated in the bill. A final amendment, however, provided that the bill should not apply to cities until the tax rate for school purposes had reached the 40 mill point. This will mean that Brainerd may receive a very generous sum from the state whenever her school tax rate reaches the mark set by the new law. The annual allowance under the above law is sufficiently large to make it worth while to do some figuring as to how to qualify to receive it.

The sewing exhibits of work done by Miss Oberg's class of high school girls, chiefly of wearing apparel, was held on Wednesday afternoon at the high school sewing room. The work done by the girls, in making these useful articles and doing the entire work themselves, was a credit to the class and to their teacher. This department has been one of the most useful departments in our high school and it would have been a great pity had the legislature withdrawn the state aid.

Within the next week, it is expected that plans for the new Mill school will be before the Board for final consideration, so that work on the new building may not be delayed. It is the purpose of the Board to make of this school a model of its kind both in its external appearance as well as in its interior arrangements. Provision is being made by means of sliding partitions that an ample audience room for community gatherings and entertainments may be furnished. Such a need exists in every one of the grade buildings of the city to care for the Parent-Teachers and other public meetings. It is to be hoped that a way may be found to meet this need in each ward school.

The Whittier school acknowledges with thanks the receipt of two beautiful bound volumes, "Our Islands and Their People", gifts to the library from Mr. and Mrs. Henry I. Cohen. The Whittier school has tried out an interesting and successful experiment during the last month and one that might well be employed at all of the schools in getting parents to visit the school. Many of the rooms succeeded in attaining a hundred per cent record in parents' visits. When every teacher has an opportunity to meet and extend the handshake to the father or mother of every child and where every parent has an opportunity to see their child's teacher at work in the school room, a more cordial relationship is almost sure to be established between the home and the school.

President Brown of the St. Cloud Normal school visited the high school last week and gave a talk to members of the senior class. At the close of his address, a large number of the class indicated their desire to receive catalogs of the state normal with a view to entrance. A considerable number will enter the summer session of the normal in June.

A complete statement of the needs of the Brainerd schools which cannot be fully met until additional school room is provided, would require more space than the limits of the present report would permit.

MEMORIAL DAY PLANS FORMING

LIVING SOLDIERS WILL HONOR
DEAD COMRADES WHO LIE IN ARLINGTON CEMETERY.

WORLD WAR HEROES THERE

Nation's Burial Place Will Be at the Height of Its Beauty When Veterans Deck Its Many Graves With Flowers.

By EDWARD B. CLARK.

Washington.—Preparations are being made by the living soldiers of America's wars to honor their dead comrades who lie in the great national cemetery at Arlington which stands on Potomac hill overlooking the capital of the country.

For weeks past there have been burials of the dead of the great war every day in Arlington. The sound of taps is heard through the great forest trees and the valleys in honor of the dead are heard across the river. This year the surviving veterans of the Civil war, the Indian wars, and the Spanish war will join with the members of the American Legion in doing honor to those who have answered their last roll call on earth.

In all the burial places near the capital, notably in Arlington, the graves are guarded by great trees, many of them of more than a century's growth. The oaks are magnificent and are holding their own against the encroachments on all sides of a civilization which in some parts of the country has been fatal to one of the noblest of our trees.

When Memorial day shall come the rose season will be found at its height, and with the roses will be blossoming all the summer flowers which will have come to take the place of the spring offerings of the forsythia, the crocus, the hyacinth and the tulip.

Not a Mournful Place.

Arlington is not altogether a mournful place. Association in a way makes it sad, but the breeze always is there, the sunshine generally, the view is appealing and the singing birds refuse to forsake it because they have learned that in God's acres they are safe from persecution.

The red bird, known variously as the Kentucky cardinal, the Virginia nightingale and the grosbeak, is in Arlington winter and summer. With it as a close companion is the tufted titmouse in its confederate gray. The cardinal whistles as cheerily as any life at reveille, while the titmouse calls "Peter, Peter, Peter," all day long and never loses heart because Peter fails to respond.

There are 5,000 Confederate dead sleeping in Arlington. The monument to the Confederates is one of the most beautiful memorials in the United States. It was the work of the sculptor, Moses Ezekiel, whose body was brought from Italy to rest in Arlington. Ezekiel was a cadet at the Virginia Military Institute at the outbreak of the Civil war. He took part in the battle of Newmarket.

Sheridan, Schofield, Harney and Crook are buried in Arlington. Not far from the graves of Sheridan and Schofield there is at rest a Southern soldier of fame who lived to wear the blue once more after the Civil war was at an end. Joseph Wheeler, a general officer in the Confederate service, re-entered the federal service at the time of the Spanish war and died as a major general of the U. S. army. He was a graduate of West Point, had worn the blue and the gray, and then the blue again.

Memorial Day Plans.

Memorial exercises in the national cemetery always were held in the open air with forest trees as the pillars of the temple. So it is in part today, but the government recently erected a marble-walled amphitheater at Arlington as a memorial to the soldiers and sailors of the Civil war. In this amphitheater some of the services of memorial will be held. It seems doubtful to many whether the intrusion of the amphitheater into nature's garden was altogether a justifiable act of man.

The American Legion and other organizations of veterans of the great war and the societies of other wars in which Americans engaged are working together in preparation for the next Memorial day. There are more graves than ever to be decked with flowers, and as the years go on the number of mounds will be multiplied, while the ranks of those who bear the flowers will be depleted.

Today there are regular troops stationed at Fort Myer, and at Forts Washington and Hunt which guard the river approaches to the capital. The regulars, the National Guardsmen, the veterans who have gone back into civil life, and the men who have entered the reserves of the United States army, all will be represented in the Memorial day pilgrimage to the eternal camp of the American hosts.

Windows Ruined by Disease.

York minister, one of the most beautiful cathedrals of England, famous for its glorious stained glass, is in trouble. Some mysterious disease has attacked the stained glass. It takes the form of minute holes which in time deepen and cause the glass to flake. Some portions are as thin as tissue paper and crumble at the touch. No one knows a cure.—Scientific American.

YOU Are Keeping Them Warm!

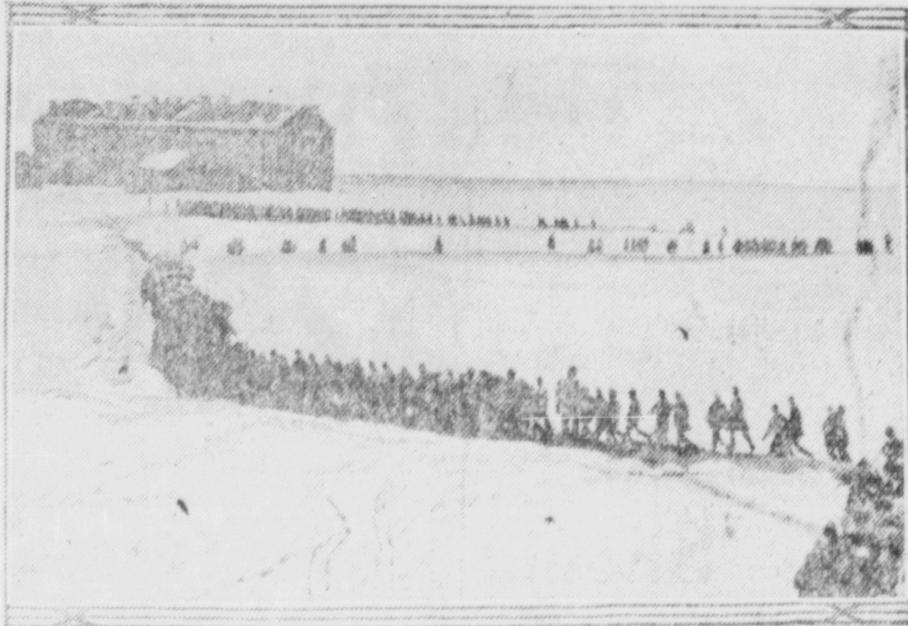

Photo International.

In the mile square of former Russian barracks in Alexandropol, Republic of Armenia, are housed 5,347 little Armenian orphans under care of the Near East Relief. Every bite they eat, every stitch they wear, is the gift of the people of the United States, through the Near East Relief. In addition, the Near East Relief hospital has a daily average of 1,211 children patients, while 1,049 others are given medical treatment which does not require confinement to hospital beds. Over 54,000 little Armenian children are housed, clothed and fed by the Near East Relief in Armenia and Syria.

In all over 110,000 little children are being kept alive by American aid. YOU are doing it! KEEP IT UP!

High Commissioner Praises Near East Relief

Rear Adm'l Bristol

Mark L. Bristol, U. S. Navy, High Commissioner to Turkey, who has charge of all American interests in the Near East, went on record wholeheartedly in support of the American relief organization.

"If I have been able to encourage the workers of the Near East Relief or give them assistance in any way," the Admiral said, "I feel that I am more than repaid in keeping with the success that has attended the efforts of the Near East Relief Committee in this part of the world in the past. I hope the future will bring you greater success. It will always give me pleasure to render any assistance possible to the Committee as a whole, to any of the workers, and to the great work of humanity that the committee represents."

When 130,000 Russian refugees from the Crimea arrived off Constantinople, Admiral Bristol immediately cabled the Near East Relief for help, and the Near East Relief bakers fed these refugees and N. E. R. workers helped the American sailors to get the sick to hospitals.

Admiral Bristol is in intimate touch with all the work being conducted by the Near East Relief and speaks from personal knowledge of its accomplishments.

INVESTIGATOR INDORSES NEAR EAST RELIEF

During the Peace Conference in Paris the American Commission to Negotiate Peace, appreciating the importance of accurate, first hand information about the Armenian situation, sent Capt. Benjamin Burges Moore of the American Red Cross as head of a special mission to study and report on conditions. Captain Moore's findings as to the value of the work done by the Near East Relief form part of his official report.

"Armenians are sincerely grateful to us," Captain Moore states, "since it is no exaggeration to say that they would have disappeared as a nation had it not been for this splendid help given them by the Near East Relief and the American Food Administration. The best that sympathetic Americans can do is to continue and enlarge the present admirable work of the Near East Relief."

110,000 Starving Children

Like the one in this photograph, too weak to walk when brought to the Near East Relief orphanage at Erivan, the capital of Armenia, are being nursed back to life and health through the generosity of the American people, by contributions to the Near East Relief, 1 Madison Ave., New York. HAVE YOU A LITTLE ORPHAN IN YOUR HEART?

CENTENARIES OF GREAT MEN

Year 1921 is Rich in Memories of Those Whom the World Delights to Honor.

Nineteen hundred and twenty-one is particularly rich in literary centenaries, says a correspondent in the Manchester Guardian. Flaubert and Dostoevsky represent France and Russia, respectively, in fiction, and Britain has Wilkie Collins, Whyte Melville and, if one may venture to add her name to such an illustrious company, Miss Charlotte Maria Tucker, dear to some of us in childhood days as A. L. O. E.

In poetry the great name of Dante is supreme; it will be the 600th anniversary of his death in September. This year also sees the birth centenary of Baudelaire, while we have such a variety of poets as Dora Greenwell, Frederick Locker-Lampson and John Skinner, the last named having been born 200 years ago and called by Burns the writer of the "best Scottish song ever Scotland saw."

Sir Samuel Baker, Heinrich Barth and Sir Richard Burton make a notable trilogy of travelers, and among painters there are Noel Paton and Ford Madox Brown. Of religious writers, preachers, teachers and church dignitaries there are George Dawson, Archbishop Temple, Dean Bradley (who propped the walls of Westminster abbey for posterity), and Henri Frederic Amiel. And in what other company shall one include Marcus Aurelius, said to have been born in 121 A. D., and Anne Askew, born in 1521, and martyred 25 years later?

Journalism is represented by Hepworth Dixon and J. M. F. Ludlow, the latter being the propagandist through the press of Christian socialism. Golfers will be glad to revive the memory of Tom Morris and educationists that of Edward Thorpe, while the fighting services are represented by Lord Alcester.

Fats.

There is one woman in Indianapolis, who will have cause to reflect long on the uncertainty of life. Dishwashing being particularly joyless to her, she halted with dismay her husband's announcement that an electric dishwasher was to be her birthday present and hurried down town to order one sent out. The obliging clerk, on being impressed with the strength of her desire to have the machine in the house before the evening meal, glibly promised to see that it was there. The woman was anxious to try it out as soon as it came. Accordingly, she solicited some dirty dishes from one of the neighbors who had her heavy meal at noon. The dishes were carried over in market baskets and deposited in the kitchen to await a demonstration. Four o'clock came and with it a vague uneasiness that later became a certainty though telephone calls to the accommodating clerk brought forth the assurance that the machine would be there. At 5:45 she put on the dishpan and washed her neighbor's dishes. Then she took them home in the market baskets, a sadly disillusioned woman. Some time the next day the dishwasher arrived. — Indianapolis News.

Changed His Mind.

Sharp Dame—I must frankly tell you, Mr. Meek, that my consent to your marrying my daughter has been wrung from me under protest.

Mr. Meek—Eh? Protest?

Sharp Dame—Yes, sir. I knew that if I did not consent she would disgrace the family by an elopement. When she wants anything we all have to give in to her, or take the consequences; and long experience has taught me that I might as well try to fan off a cyclone as reason with her when she gets angry, especially if there is a flat-iron or a rolling-pin handy, and so I just give up at once. Has the wedding day been fixed on yet, Mr. Meek?

Mr. Meek—Um—er, not yet; and, in fact, madam, I'm—I'm a little afraid that I can't afford to marry. Goo—good day.

An Isolated People.

How much remains to be done before we shall have a complete knowledge of the inhabitants of our planet is indicated by the failure of an expedition from the American Museum of Natural History to get into communication with the Naskapi Indians of Labrador. The summer expedition was undertaken it was supposed that these natives could be reached by way of the west coast of Labrador, but it was found to be impossible. In winter they go to Nitchegon, in the interior, 55 days' journey by canoe from Rupert's house on East Main river.

Tastes Much the Same.

"How's business?"
"Pretty fair," said the pressing club proprietor who deals in "moonshine" as a side line, "but I had a vexatious experience this morning."

"What was it?"
"I sold a customer of mine a quart of gasoline instead of the stuff he wanted."

"He soon found out the difference, didn't he?"
"No. He didn't know he was drinking gasoline, and I didn't know I'd sold him any until I noticed that my supply for cleaning purposes was running low."—Birmingham Age Herald.

Accidental.

Caller—Why did you teach your parrot to swear so terribly?

Hostess—We didn't do it intentionally. It just happened that her cage was near the telephone.

Snake No Match for Ants.

That ants should be able to kill a snake may seem incredible, at first. When an enemy is sighted the alarm is given at once and the whole community of ants arises in a body. They set upon the reptile, striking their nippers into it at thousands of points. The attack is made with such enormous numbers that the snake has no chance of escaping. When the snake is dead the ants will tear off the flesh in small pieces, taking all away with them except the bones and skin.

Have Abject Belief in Fate.

In the Koran is found the idea that on the brow of every human being are inscribed invisible characters which decree the events of his life and his appointed time. The first is termed "Kismet," the second "Edjel." From this belief springs unquestioned submission to the decrees of fate. Death is considered by Moslems terrible only in the abstract and when viewed from a distance. In polite society it is never mentioned save under some poetical name. "Cupbearer of the sphere" is one of the more common phrases. And never is it mentioned except when prefaced by the words "Far be it from you."

MORE MEN THAN WOMEN HAVE APPENDICITIS

Medical reports shown men are more subject to appendicitis although many sudden cases occur among women. It can be guarded against by preventing intestinal infection. The intestinal antiseptic Adler-I-ka, acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel, removing all foul, decaying matter which might cause infection. Buy Your Coal Direct From Mine—Big Saving

The high cost of coal is a thing of the past! At least, there are no complaints on this account—since the removal of government restrictions—among those who have learned how to buy coal. The way to buy coal is to get it direct from the mines. This saves several middlemen's profits. It saves hauling expenses. Anyone can now buy at mine prices, whether a carload buyer or one who uses only ten or fifteen tons a year. This has been made possible through a plan evolved by a large and old-established concern, THE BERNICE COAL COMPANY, with main offices at 538 Como Building, Chicago.

This company has thousands of customers in various sections of the United States who receive all of their coal direct from the mines. These customers are pleased not only because of the many dollars they save every year, but also because of the quality of coal they are getting. Many write that they never before had coal that makes so little dust, that burns so well, leaving so few ashes. If you are a coal user—whether you use hard or soft coal, much or little—it will be greatly to your advantage to write the Bernice Coal Co. at once for prices, stating kind and quantity of coal you use.
